A boosted bathroom Ego

Hard-edged design makes way for softer minimalist shapes and forms in the Ego range from Paco Jaanson.

The Kerasan design group from Italy have once again created a collection of bathware that blends minimal and dramatic elements to create a harmonious balance between style and functionality.

Distributed nationally by Paco Jaanson, the Ego range is composed of toilet suites, bidets and a large variety of basins.

The Ego range could be easily adapted in a wide variety of bathrooms. Boasting a vast array of stylish utilities, the collection works as a three piece set to transform the bathroom, but a piece in isolation would effectively and seamlessly slot into any existing theme.

With over 40 years experience creating handcrafted ceramic products, this innovative European company has refined ceramic bathware, creating an elegant and high quality range.
