

So go with Flo

A stunning new sanitary ware collection designed by the Italian company Kerasan has just been introduced by Paco Jaanson in Sydney.

The Italian company has more than 40 years' designing and manufacturing quality handcrafted ceramic products.

Flo is Kerasan's latest range to impress the bathroom market with beautifully integrated high quality materials, the best finishes and the achievement of the highest level of comfort in all bathroom installations and environments.

The collection features the Flo wall hung or floor mounted WC and bidet, and the Flo wall hung or bench mounted basin, presenting the consumer with two design options to integrate into their personal bathroom space concept.

Contemporary trends are to have as little of the WC and bidet showing as possible to provide the consumer with something slick and unobtrusive in order to create a more spacious bathroom.

The Flo style embodies this trend with its smooth, classic edges and curves that blend softly into either the floor or wall surface.

The experts at Paco Jaanson believe that the look and mood of bathrooms are as important as ever. But they also stress that bathroom basics remain practical and purposeful.
