

Ceramic art in bathroom

THE latest series of washbasins from Paco Jaanson, "Inka", illustrates the conception of a new design perspective within the bathroom space.

The innovative integration of a semi-recessed basin seemingly wrapped around a ceramic countertop, means that the Inka range creates visual continuity and is a beautiful and artistic focus point for the bathroom.

Renowned Italian design group, Kerasan is responsible for this ceramic bathware design. Available in black, white and chocolate tones, the pieces are complemented by a variety of finishes and surfaces such as matte, gloss, watermark and zebrano. With a starting price of $260 for counter tops and $620 for basins, the Inka range will be available at Paco Jaanson stockists nationwide from December 2009.
