

BATHING BEAUTIES

NEW products from Europe are making a splash in bathroom design.

Timber-look tiles are the latest Italian trend to hit Australia. The Doga range of tiles (pictured) are made from porcelain but look like timber floorboards.

Award-winning Antonio Miro has created a truly stunning range of bathroom furniture including the mirror with a clock, crafted from iroko wood.

Native to the west coast of Africa, iroko wood is known for being tough, dense and very durable, making it perfect for the bathroom environment.

And for the ultimate in luxury, splash out on a Versace soap holder. The Versace bathroom range is in 24-carat-gold plating and chrome and is inspired by classic 17th century Italian architecture and the neoclassic style of 18th century Italy.

Antonio Miro drawer $2500 and washbasin $3300 (above), shelf $1550 (below).
www.pacojaanson.com.au

Ikea Aman bath sheet $19.95

Versace soap holder $875
www.artisticstone.com.au

Ikea Vitskar 3-piece bathroom set $10.95

Ikea Malma mirror $4.95.
www.ikea.com.au

Antonio Miro washbasin $3300, mirror with clock $1050

Amber Doga tiles, from $132 per square metre.
www.ambertiles.com.au

You will usually find the room tucked away but, as Michelle Collins discovers, the bathroom is at the forefront of interior design