

k&b

Book & bathe
Rexa Design "Unico Egg" with storage in White, from $8400, Paco Jaanson. 1.71m x 88cm x 48cm; 150L capacity.

Straight edge
Latis in White, $5970, Omvivo. 1.6m x 75cm x 60cm; 336L capacity.

Traditional shape
York classic double-ended in White with Quarrycast base, $3550, Victoria + Albert. 1.75m x 80cm x 61.8cm; 276L capacity.

Great price
Rick McLeans acrylic Modern freestanding, $1300, Bunnings. 1.72m x 77cm x 75cm; 200L capacity.

BEAUTIFUL BATHS

Traditional, organic and modern designs – just add bubbles, then sit back and soak for hours in these divine tubs

Solid style
Marc Newson freestanding in Cristalplant matte finish, $5999, Caroma. 1.69m x 70cm x 60.5cm. 405L capacity. For stockists, see page 207.

Lovely legs
Single-ended in Black with ball-and-claw feet, $1247.50, Schots Home Emporium. 1.535m x 76.2m x 59.5m; 184L capacity.

♥ splurge!

High back
Laufen "Palomba Collection" Solid Surface in White, $9350, Reece. 1.8m x 89cm x 89cm; 235L capacity.

Organic curves
Oman Stone in Nero, from $6575, Apaiser. Size starts from 1.5m x 85.5cm x 70cm; 280L capacity.

FROM SCULPTURAL SPOUTS TO FREESTANDING PILLARS,
BATH FILLERS CAN BE A STRIKING DESIGN ELEMENT

COMPILED BY ANNA McCLELLAND

BARGAIN

Scala wall
spa spout, $199, Reece.

Kohler 'Souris' wall-mounted bath spout, $249, Tridelink.

Brewers 'Dodi' mounted bath
mixer pillar,
$299, Masters.

MID-RANGE

Hansgrohe 'Pura Vida'
wall-mounted bath spout in White Chrome, $629, Bathe.

'Pinch' floor-mounted bath outlet, $699, Rogerseller.

'Icon A69.05.BP' wall-set
bath spout, $498,
Astra Walker.

SPLASH OUT

Antonio Miro bath set, $1015,
Paco Jaanson.

Perrin & Rowe 'Classical' bath filler
in Chrome, from $1095,
The English Tapware Company.

Raymor 'Torino'
bath filler,
$1219, Tradelink.
Stockists, page 114.

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

BATHROOMS

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom

designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of hidden storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

Details: tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says. Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES: When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective. A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS

Janita Singh

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered.

Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trick-ery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, of Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES:

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective. A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE:

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

FIND OUT MORE ONLINE:

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, of Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of hidden storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing the outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper, of bathroom designer Kohler, says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir, of Tradelink, says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says. Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES: When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective. A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

BATHING IN

GOOD DESIGN

BATHROOMS

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

tradelink.com.au;
reece.com.au/bathrooms;
pacojaanson.com.au;
ke3property.com.au

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom

designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensuites are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

Janita Singh

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says.

Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond, courtyard or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery" where wall-hung fixtures, such as vanities and toilets, create the illusion of space and allow dead space to be used for storage.

Kristy Muir of Tradelink says consumers are showing a preference for functional, low-profile bathroom design.

"Australians continue to renovate their bathrooms every 16-20 years and while still spending an average of $15,000 they have adapted their design choices to reflect a desire for simplicity, functionality and value for money," Muir says.

Muir says ensembles are becoming bigger and more functional and in some cases, where budget permits, the lines between the main bedroom and ensuite are blurring so "the bathing space is being treated more like a retreat".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES

When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective.

A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

FURNITURE

Simple furniture pieces such as stools add flair. Vanities come in many designs and with lots of storage. Look for pieces with hidden storage such as Paco Jaanson's recent Rexa Unico Egg Bath with compartments for storage.

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.

Home bathrooms are sporting a resort feel, such as the Paco Jaanson open design plan, above left. Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, above right, reflects the fashion trend of colour blocking.

BATHROOMS

BATHING IN GOOD DESIGN

PLANNED ROOMS ADD VALUE

HOME RENOVATE

BATHROOMS are not only a place to soak away troubles, they can add substantially to a home's value.

Ke3 Property property director Monique Eyles says buyers are attracted by bathrooms with simple designs and fresh, clean and low-maintenance layouts.

"Retro bathrooms are trending at the moment, with claw baths adding sophisticated appeal. People are updating bathrooms to designs popular in a bygone era," Eyles says. Another trend is bringing outdoors in, be it a large window framing lush foliage, a glass door or louvres opening to the garden or a bathroom that opens completely to a pond or patio.

Tom Casper of bathroom designer Kohler says the key to achieving the look is to keep the interior uncluttered. Smaller bathrooms benefit from "visual trickery".

LITTLE EXTRAS

HEATED TOWEL RAILS:

Sales of heated towel rails have more than doubled in recent years. Belinda Geels, of Reece bathrooms, says these towel rails are becoming one of the most affordable and popular luxury bathroom items.

ACCESSORIES: When it comes to tapware, the choice is vast. The most popular option is floor-mounted tapware to complement the look of a freestanding bathtub. Also available are wall-mounted taps and those that can be mounted directly on the bath. But don't ignore the small stuff such as toilet holders and seats, says Ari Zorlu of Paco Jaanson. Keeping things simple, and not following fads, will ensure your bathroom doesn't date too quickly and remains cost-effective. A recent trend is colourful accessories such as Paco Jaanson's Batlo collection, which features reds, blues and greens.

From tub to terrace ... Reece's I Love My Bathroom competition winners Kerri and Gerard Maggs, from Dural, created a captivating bathroom with an amazing private garden, outdoor bath and rain shower.